Oakland Tribune
A RESPONSIBLE METROPOLITAN NEWSPAPER
99th YEAR, NO. 76 F THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1972 15¢ DAILY, $3.75 A MONTH

100 School Officials Face Shifts

By BEV MITCHELL
Tribune Education Writer

One hundred Oakland school administrators have received letters warning that they may be dismissed from the system or reassigned to new positions — possibly back to the classroom.

This was the unusual approach, recommended by School Supt. Marcus Foster and approved yesterday by the board of education, taken in response to California's "Doomsday" deadline.

By law school employes holding teaching credentials must be notified by March 15 if there is a possibility that they will not be rehired for the coming year or that their assignments will be vastly changed.

Foster, who has estimated a $1 million budget deficit even if no new programs are initiated and there are no salary raises for teachers (a one per cent raise costs $385,000), doesn't anticipate any mass firings, but said the letters were necessary because of the financial crisis.

Final decisions must be made by May 15, and Supt. Foster pledged that within six weeks his administration will have a complete set of recommendations ready for board consideration.

He said that the move will allow the district to examine the administrative jobs by the criteria of their relationship to the goals and objectives of the schools, and that it will help balance the budget.

A teacher on special assignment (the majority of those receiving letters will fall in that category, though some will hold higher ranks) reassigned to the classroom would receive a lower salary, an example of the way the plan could save money.

Because enrollment is dropping in Oakland and other major urban districts, Foster said reductions in the classroom teaching staff would be necessary but that he believed they could be made at the end of the year by not filling vacancies occurring through resignation or retirement.

"Not sending March 15 letters to teachers nonetheless represents a risk, but one I feel we should take in view of our commitment to maintain the best possible pupil-teacher ratios," he told the board.

Director Seymour Rose remarked that it was the first time "Doomsday has been directed entirely toward the administration, not toward the classroom." (A more typical action was taken Tuesday by Alameda school directors, who approved sending letters to 41 first-year teachers.)

Rose, with directors Ann Curnelle, Lorenzo Hoopes and Board President Mel Caughell, constituted the quorum approving the action. Director Charles Gaudy attended a portion of the preceding executive session, but was not present for the vote, and David Tucker Jr., and Barney Hilburn were absent.

The plan excludes administrators, among them principals, at individual schools. Affected are staff members at the coordinator level and below who are stationed at the central administration building or directed from it.

The superintendent said the administration is giving its highest priority to protecting items directly affecting pupil instruction. But he added that while teachers often pressure the district to cut administration, it's the support services of the staff that are most often called for when teachers need help.

Foster said he would not either "entertain or 'present ideas which, for the sake of a few dollars, will cripple our district's overall thrust toward excellence," and reminded the board that previous steps toward reorganization had saved about $50,000.

In the letters being sent out, the superintendent said that personnel that they were intended to both use the supporting staff in a way that will provide maximum service to the schools and to economize.

He told them he was "personally and professionally proud of the excellent and selfless work done by our certificated support personnel."

Tribune photo by Keith Dennison

FIREMEN ASSIST INJURED TRUCK DRIVER TO AMBULANCE
Mike Ivey suffered broken leg in four-vehicle accident

Truck Driver Cut Free of Wreckage

The Oakland Fire Department had to cut a motorist free from his panel truck here this morning after a chain-reaction accident involving four vehicles on the Nimitz Freeway.

The truck driver, Mike Ivey, 23 of 140 Linda St., San Pablo, was taken to Highland Hospital with a broken left leg and a lacerated left kneecap. He was listed in good condition. Two other persons suffered minor injuries.

Edmund Sousa, 30, of 4240 Maple Ave., Castro Valley, who was driving a bigger truck, said the accident occurred after a northbound auto was cut off by another car at the 16th Avenue overpass.

He said his own truck hit a small panel truck ahead of him, and was hit from behind by a panel truck carrying cases of motor oil and driven by Ivey.

The fire department used power saws to free Ivey from his truck, sawing off the driver's door and the hood of the vehicle. The impact of the collision had collapsed the front end of the truck around him.

The wreck, which occurred at about 9:35 a.m., tied up northbound traffic for 30 to 45 minutes.

Ground-Breaking For City Center

Under a bright blue sky Mayor John H. Reading today climbed onto a piece of heavy construction equipment, threw a switch and thus the first dirt was moved for Oakland's $150 million City Center.

The few yards of dirt moved stand for more than just the start of one building, the crowd of onlookers at 14th Street and Broadway were told, but a new day for downtown Oakland.

"We have only begun," Reading declared.

"This ceremony here today must not lull us into complacency. Everyone who has concern for Oakland's future must pitch in and help us get the job done," the mayor said.

The official groundbreaking ceremonies — which took place one year and four months after demolition began for the urban renewal project — marked the start of construction of the first structure in the center, a 10-story office building to house the Eastbay regional headquarters of Wells Fargo Bank and the world headquarters of Grubb and Ellis Co., head of the joint venture behind the project.

John B. Williams, executive director of the Redevelopment Agency, told the audience of civic, business, industry and community leaders that City Center will dramatically rebuild Oakland's central urban core.

"In a matter of a few years Oakland's well-designed City Center will be a nationally recognized renewal model funded by HUD (federal department of Housing and Urban Development) for the economic revitalization of our cities.

"This significant moment has been made possible by the combined efforts of local government, citizen participation, private business and the Federal Government. The face of downtown Oakland will be-

See Back Page, Col. 5

Smog Aide Saved in Close Vote

By FRED GARRETSON
Tribune Staff Writer

A majority of the directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District voted yesterday to fire Matthew S. Walker as counsel of the nine county smog board, but Walker's enemies failed to round up enough votes to oust him.

The vote in favor of firing Walker was 9 to 8, but an attorney hired by the board ruled it would take 10 votes on the 18 member board to oust Walker.

Solano County Supervisor Robert Scofield of Vallejo, who hasn't expressed himself publicly on the controversy, was absent on a trip to New Zealand with his son.

As the meeting ended, Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort of Berkeley and Contra Costa County Supervisor James P. Kenny of Richmond suggested the board now consider firing D. J. (Jud) Callaghan, the smog board's chief administrative officer.

"I don't want to ignore the charges against Callaghan for the next seven or eight months," Bort said. A 66 page statement charging Callaghan with failing to enforce smog control laws was filed with the board two weeks ago by conservationists.

Bort's statement produced a loud cheer in the packed meeting room. Conservation groups have supported Walker and urged the firing of Callaghan. The bitter feud between the smog board's two top staff members has paralyzed the district for six months.

The indications are that nobody is going to be fired, at least for a few months. The

See Back Page, Col. 6

Nixon Going to Moscow May 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will leave May 22 for Moscow to hold summit talks with Soviet leaders, the White House announced today.

Nixon, the White House said, will discuss with the Soviets "all major issues with a view toward further improving bilateral relations and enhancing the prospects for world peace."

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the exact number of days for the visit was still being discussed. But he said, "I think you could assume that the visit will last about a week."

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President as will Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

You can be in her shoes!

See page 38-K

Board Cuts ILWU Pay Boost to 14.9%

Action Could Pave Way For Another Walkout At Ports on West Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board today lopped off about one-fourth of a big raise for West Coast dock workers. The move is almost certain to provoke a renewed shutdown of Pacific ports and perhaps East and Gulf Coast ports too.

The board calculated the longshoremen's raise as a 20.9 per cent increase in the first year. That was disapproved by a vote of 8 to 5. The board then authorized its chairman, George H. Boldt, to approve a reduced settlement of 14.9 per cent.

However, Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, has threatened to strike if the board cut the contract "by as much as one cent."

In San Francisco, Charles Velson, Bridges' administrative assistant, said "we're not going to have anything to say right away."

James Robertson, secretary of the employer Pacific Maritime Association, said: "We have the Pay Board ruling under study. We anticipate meeting with the ILWU early next week. Until we meet with the union we have no official statement."

The ILWU struck West Coast ports for 134 days to win the big contract, which they had argued was justified by a long history of improved productivity.

Bridges has said the International Longshoremen's Association would join him in a strike against East and Gulf Coast ports but ILA officials have not confirmed this.

Boldt read a brief statement announcing disapproval of the contract and refused to answer newsmen's questions afterward.

He said the first year of the contract contained a 16 per cent increase in wages and a 4 per cent increase in such fringe benefits as pensions, insurance and disability allowances.

The board approved the entire amount of the fringe benefits but said it would accept only a 10 per cent increase in wages.

The board's general wage guideline is 5.5 per cent but

See Back Page, Col. 1

Economic Uplift Bid By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today a sweeping program of tax aids, credit help, and relaxation of the antitrust laws to stimulate a partnership effort of government and business to develop new and usable technologies.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon said the fruits of accelerated research and development should be applied to solving the nation's social and economic problems and bolstering American leadership in trade competition.

"I am therefore calling today for a strong new effort to marshal science and technology in the work of strengthening our economy and improving the quality of our life," Nixon said.

"And I am outlining ways in which the Federal Government can work as a more effective partner in this great task."

Nixon said the partnership will bind together the Federal Government, private enterprise, state and local governments and university research centers in a cooperative effort to promote the national interest.

The message unveiled some of the recommendations of a White House office on technology created six months ago, which has been sifting proposals developed by some 700 persons assigned to the task in a score of federal agencies.

Nixon's budget message in January called for a substantial increase in federal outlays for government research and development, including a redirection of some military, space and atomic energy research to serve civilian needs.

The message listed some of the targets:

—New sources of energy without pollution.

—Fast, safe, pollution-free transportation.

—Measures to reduce the loss of life and property from earthquake, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

—Improvement of drug abuse rehabilitation programs and curb drug trafficking.

—Increasing research efforts aimed at cures for cancer and heart disease and other killer ailments, as well as improving health care systems.

Nixon, in calling on Con-

See Back Page, Col. 5

President to Air Busing Proposals Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today President Nixon will go on radio and television at 10 p.m. EST (7 p.m. PST) today to outline his recommendations on the school busing issue.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will speak for about 10 to 15 minutes to outline recommendations in a formal message to be sent to the Congress tomorrow.

The White House said earlier Nixon would not go on public television or make any speech on his recommendations. Ziegler said the President changed his mind after finalizing details of his recommendation at Camp David, Md.

Ziegler said results of Tuesday's Florida primary election in which voters overwhelmingly endorsed a constitutional amendment against busing and in which antibusing candidate George Wallace won the Democratic preferential voting had nothing to do with the President's decision to make a television speech on busing.

U.S. Board Backs Wide Birth Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission on population recommended today that abortion, contraception and sterilization be made available to all Americans, married and single, and paid for by public and private health insurance.

In an 84-page report sure to intensify the heated debate about moral and religious aspects of birth control, the 24-member commission on population growth and the American future also called for repeal of laws in roughly half the states prohibiting contraceptive advertising, store display and vending machine distribution. It called for "affirmative programs to distribute such supplies to all who may wish to use them."

The commission, created by Congress in 1970 at President Nixon's request and headed by John D. Rockefeller III, recommended a special program of birth control services for teen-agers. Moral questions aside, it said, America must face the reality that teen-aged sexual activity often results in unwanted pregnancy, with tragic results for mother and child.

"A recent national study of unmarried teen-age girls revealed that 44 per cent of 15-year-olds and up to 44 per cent of 19-year-olds reported having had sexual relations," the commission said. "Only 20 per cent of these girls used contraception regularly."

The commission rejected proposals to reduce the birth rate through sterility bonuses, tax incentives or welfare limitations.

It said its goal of zero population growth, proclaimed in a report last Saturday, could be coupled with more freedom and a better life for all. If childbearing became a result of choice, not accident.

The U.S. Catholic Conference immediately blasted the report as "naive in its assumptions and punitive in its recommendations" and said it should be treated with "benign neglect."

In addition to voluntary con-

See Back Page, Col. 3

Golda Hits Hussein's Proposal

By RAYMOND LAWRENCE
Foreign News Analyst

Israel Premier Golda Meir today rejected Jordanian King Hussein's plan to create a semiautonomous Palestinian state under his sovereignty.

In brushing aside the monarch's design to incorporate the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip into a unit of the Jordanian federation, with Jerusalem as the capital, Mrs. Meir told a crowded session of parliament in Jerusalem:

"His plan cannot be used as a basis for peace with Israel."

She derided the whole proposal as a gimmick and declared Jordan will regain the occupied territories only by negotiating a peace treaty with Israel.

Israel has occupied the Arab lands since its decisive victory in the 1967 war and Mrs. Meir said:

"No gimmick, even if it wins the biggest headlines, will bring with it any constructive change.

"This is a presumptuous, one-sided announcement which not only doesn't serve the interest of peace, but also is likely to encourage extreme elements to seek war against Israel.

"Only one way has a chance and this is through serious negotiation for a peace solution — to seek understanding and

See Back Page, Col. 7

Summer Keeps Marching On

More warm summer weather is forecast for the Bay Area although it will be slightly cooler tomorrow with temperatures in the 60s along the coast and 70s inland.

Downtown Oakland recorded a temperature of 84 degrees yesterday — the highest of the year and the warmest March 15 on record.

In downtown San Francisco the high was 75 degrees. The temperature at the Oakland Airport reached 82, while Livermore recorded 79, Orinda 78, Walnut Creek 79.

The weather service said patches of fog along the coast tonight and tomorrow morning may be the only exception to otherwise clear skies.

Whale Release Termed 'Cruel'

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Gigi swam in apparently bewildered circles off the coast of California today, faced with an enormous problem: Gigi doesn't know how to be a whale.

And "she doesn't have a snowball's chance in hell of making it" according to a prominent marine biologist. He called her plight a "cruel and inhuman fiasco."

The gray whale was captured when she was only seven weeks old and was raised in a tank at Sea World in San Diego. The water was clean. The tank was well lighted. She had a dolphin for a playmate and human researchers for friends—they could pat and caress and feed her—and was fed chopped squid.

She was cared for by researchers from Sea World and the U.S. Navy's Undersea Research and Development Center.

But even baby whales are big. Gigi grew to the point where now, at one year old, she weighs 23,000 pounds and is 27½ feet long. She couldn't stay in a small tank much longer, and an agreement with the Interior Department also required her to be released.

And so, equipped with a radio transmitter attached to a platform seven onto her back, Gigi was booted out of the

See Back Page, Col. 4