NCAA BASKETBALL PLAYOFFS

LSU 83	Michigan St. 80	Duke 89	DePaul 74	Kansas 65
Memphis St. 81	Georgetown 68	Old Dominion 61	Oklahoma 69	Temple 43

Complete details in Sports

THE TRIBUNE

SERVING THE GREATER BAY AREA FROM OAKLAND SINCE 1874

Oakland, California | Sunday, March 16, 1986 | 75 Cents

George Vukasin
Trying for expansion

If NFL expands, Oakland has a chance

By Jon Rochmis
The Tribune

When the National Football League finally gets around to the subject of expansion — something targeted for no earlier than 1988 — the city of Oakland appears to be the sentimental choice among several of the league's owners.

Even Al Davis, who broke the hearts of thousands of Oakland Raiders fans when he moved his team to Los Angeles in 1982, believes Oakland should get the first crack.

"Oakland is a tremendous football town," the Raiders' managing general partner said last week during the annual league meetings at Rancho Mirage. "They have great fans and I have wonderful memories of our years in Oakland. Sure, I think they should get an NFL franchise.

"But it's not a question of what I think."

Davis' support is important to Oakland's push to gain another NFL franchise, according to Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum board President George Vukasin.

"We probably will not get the Oakland Raiders back, so the board is making efforts to get an expansion team. And to do that, we need the support, probably, of Al Davis," said Vukasin, the head of a contingent of Coliseum officials that lobbied for support at the meetings.

Several sticky items stand in the way of even discussing expansion, and it was not an official topic at the meetings which concluded Thursday.

But The Tribune, in a random poll of several owners and NFL executives, found that many favor the return of the league to Oakland

See OAKLAND, Back Page

William Sullivan
Oakland deserving

Parades make splash in Eastbay

Photos by Angela Pancrazio and Kelly Gast/The Tribune

Rain didn't dampen the spirits of roller skater Franklin Burke, upper left, and trumpeter Mark Nakamura, right, at Oakland's St. Patrick's Day Unity Parade.

The Eastbay city of Dublin (where else?) also celebrated the Irish saint's day with a parade. Marchers from the Dublin Public Library, bottom right, had a bookish look.

Oakland parade observers Karen Cotton, left, and Heather Lowe formed a quick friendship under Karen's umbrella.

GOP gains on Democrats in the Eastbay

By Virgil Meibert
The Tribune

SACRAMENTO — It's still not exactly Reagan country, but new voter registration figures show the Republican Party gaining ground in the traditionally Democratic Eastbay during the past three years.

Three new Republican cities have emerged, Pleasanton, Clayton and Orinda. And more young first-time voters are registering Republican than in the past.

Delighted Republicans say the trend reflects the changing mood of voters. They say they are becoming more conservative. Democrats attribute it simply to the personal popularity of President Reagan.

"We had the same thing when Jack Kennedy was president," says Bill Cavala, a top political strategist for Assembly Speaker Willie Brown. "It has more to do with a popular symbol than with issues."

New voter registration figures released by Secretary of State March Fong Eu this past

See GOP, Page A-2

Marcos not happy, wants to go to Spain

By Bernard Gwertzman
The New York Times

WASHINGTON — Ferdinand E. Marcos, reportedly unhappy with his reception in Hawaii, has asked the United States to help him find a safe haven in Spain or some other country, administration officials said yesterday.

"I think that if he finds a respectable place to go with reasonable housing and other arrangements, he will leave the United States," a senior administration official said. "In my opinion, that would be the most rational thing for him to do."

The official added that the former Philippine president has been assured, as have foreign governments, that he can always return to the United States.

His top choices are Spain,

New Filipino party forms. A-6
Marcos worries Hawaii. C-7

See MARCOS, Back Page

INSIDE

Yipes! We've grown up — B-1
Adulthood arrives on time outwardly, but inwardly . . .

The Eastbay's most perilous crossing — D-1
13 pedestrians have been hit at Lake Shore Avenue crosswalk

Three Irish clans will gather this summer — E-5
Guinnesses, O'Neills and Vances assemble from around world

Bishop O'Dowd High wins NorCal title — F-1
Dragons beat Logan; Mt. Eden upset by Aptos

British movies highlight S.F. festival — Calendar
Thirteen new releases may yield major discoveries

WEATHER

Showers and a few thunderstorms likely today. Highs from the 40s to low 50s. Showers decreasing this evening, then partial clearing. Lows in the 30s and 40s. More weather, A-10.

INDEX

Nation/World	A	Ann Landers	B-2	Calendar
Lifestyle	B	Erma Bombeck	B-2	Astrology	Page 26
Business	C	Art Buchwald	B-6	Books	Page 3
Local	D	Classified	G-6	Going out	Page 9
Travel	E	Editorials	C-8	Movies	Page 6
Sports	F	Emphasis	C-7	Music	Page 8
Real Estate	G	Funerals	D-9	Bill Mann	Page 2
Calendar		Robert Maynard	C-8	Pastimes	Page 26
What's on Television		Dave Newhouse	F-1	Reno • Tahoe	Page 20
Parade		Opinion	C-9
Comics		Maureen J. Perry	B-3
		Cliff Pletschet	C-1

Vol. 113-75 ★★★★

'Doonesbury' deal

Tribune's settlement sign of times

Deal to share features cheers others in industry

By Roger Rapoport
The Tribune

Several years ago two Bay Area publishers and their wives joined each other for an Ella Fitzgerald performance at San Francisco's Venetian Room. Although the publishers, Richard T. Thieriot of the San Francisco Chronicle and Robert C. Maynard of The Tribune, both agreed about the artistry of the jazz great, they did not see eye to eye on another matter:

"I want 'Doonesbury,'" Maynard told Thieriot.

"You can't have him," Thieriot replied.

The resultant antitrust lawsuit filed by The Tribune in December of 1983 against the

See TRIBUNE, Page A-2

Bammie winner

Sheila E. was among those selected last night for this year's Bay Area Music Awards. (For details, Page A-10.)

Shultz, Soviet meet but little comes of talk

By Norman Kempster
Los Angeles Times

STOCKHOLM — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, in a meeting that ran almost double its scheduled hour, agreed yesterday that U.S.-Soviet relations have not progressed satisfactorily since last November's Geneva summit.

With Ryzkhov at his side in a room at the Soviet Embassy after their meeting, Shultz said that he and Ryzhkov had discussed possible dates for the next summit meeting between President Reagan and Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, but were unable to agree on one.

Shultz said that the summit discussions would continue, presumably through diplomatic channels.

He said he and the Soviet leader agreed that last year's summit in Geneva formed "a good basis" for Washington-Moscow relations.

"We also agreed that neither of us is satisfied with developments since that time," Shultz said.

"I agree with you," Ryzhkov

See SHULTZ, Back page

Economic recovery no 'miracle' to some

By Robert Pear
The New York Times

WASHINGTON — Although most Americans are benefiting from the nation's robust economic recovery, economists say that at least 10 million to 15 million are receiving little direct gain.

In his State of the Union message last month, President Reagan described the recent experience of the United States as an "economic miracle."

The economy has grown for 40 consecutive months, adding more than 9 million jobs and raising total employment to 110.3 million. The inflation rate plunged from more than 12 percent in 1980 to 3.8 percent in 1985, and a sharp decline in oil prices this year

Confusing market surge. C-1.

See RECOVERY, Back Page